ling In County

CURRAN IS NAMED AS INVESTIGATOR

Paid by Week, Will Report
To Prosecutor's
Office

LISBON, Feb. 7.—Columbiana county officials gave evidence today that the investigation of alleged gambling ring operations in the county had not been dismissed with the January grand jury.

Signs Court Order

Common Pleas Judge V. F. Lones
this morning signed a court order authorizing Prosecutor Karl Stouffer to spend $150, appropriated by the county commissioners, to finance gambling investigations.

The court order also designated George Curran, special investigator for the prosecutor's office, to conduct the probe.

Curran, a former East Liverpool policeman, will receive a salary of $40 a week until such time as the fund is exhausted. It is not known whether the county will set aside additional money for the investigation.

Judge Lones has instructed Investigator Curran to report his findings to the prosecutor and the grand jury.

Will Continue Work

The April grand jury, it is indicated, will take over the consideration and investigation of gambling cases where the January grand jury left off.

The next grand jurors are expected to be seated April 18.

Both Judge Lones and Prosecutor Stouffer have indicated their intentions of ridding Columbiana county of gambling rackets of all kinds.

Ice Jam Perils Four Russian Scientists

STUDY CLUES IN RECTOR'S DEATH

Footprints and Two Bullets Are Found In Georgia Slaying

ST. SIMONS ISLAND, Ga., Feb. 7.—Rain-washed footprints and two .38 caliber bullets gave steeper clues today to the nocturnal slaying of Dr. Charles H. Lee, vice-fighting rector of historic Christ church. He was a second cousin of the Confederate general, Robert E. Lee.

A midnight sniper shot the 72-year-old rector Saturday night as he worked over a sermon in his home on this vacation spot off the coast of Georgia.

The footprints trailed an eighth of a mile through moss-hung, tangled woodland toward the island recreation pier, then faded out.

Sharpshooters, recessing the night, were made by sharpshooters "duke variety" shoes of size nine or 10.

One of the two bullets, an ordinary lead slug, was found embedded in a wall with its line of flight indicating it had passed within inches of the rector's head. The other, a copper-jacketed missile, had crashed through his brain and tumbled past the walls of two rooms.

A friend of the rector, G. C. Durand, headmaster of Sea Island school, said Dr. Lee had been disturbed over what he described as vice conditions in the region. He said Mrs. Lee quoted her husband as saying "some great tragedy will have to occur before Glynn county will have law and order."

Two Shots Fired
Mrs. Lee said the two heard one report and thought it an automobile blowout or backfire. Then leaving the room, she heard another and returned.

"I found Dr. Lee sitting on the settee just as I left him," she said, "his head leaning forward. . . I saw his face covered with blood. . ."

His hand clutched pencil scribbles.
Christ church was founded at Fort Frederica after colonizing Gen. James Edward Oglethorpe established the post as a buffer state between England's Carolina and Spanish Florida. John Wesley who later founded Methodism, and his brother Charles were the first rectors.

Lisbon Man, Injured In Fall, Succumbs

James A. Green, 87, of Vine st., Lisbon, died at Salem City hospital at 3:30 p. m. Saturday from the effects of a fractured left hip received when he slipped and fell on an icy sidewalk in Lisbon, Dec. 15.

Born in Elkrun township, he was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jason Green. He was a retired farmer and was a member of the Lisbon Presbyterian church.

He is survived by one sister, Mrs. Annie Gaskill, of Minooka, Ill., and two nephews and one niece, of the same address. Mr. Green's wife died June 24, 1934.

The funeral service was held at 2 p. m. today at the Ellis funeral home, in charge of Rev. J. Morgan Cox. Burial was in Lisbon cemetery.

Face Life Terms

CLEVELAND, Feb. 7.—Life imprisonment for five young men was the penalty written in court records today for the holdup slaying last spring of Special Policeman Lawrence Krull.

The five were: Joseph Taylor, 24; Theodore Slapak, 19; Joseph Grisafulla, 24; his brother-in-law, Edward Papes, 21, and Charles Rooney, 29. The last three were convicted last Saturday night by a jury of six men and six women; the other two were convicted in earlier trials.

RUSSIANS FACE ICE JAM PERIL

Four Scientists Report Themselves
In Extreme Danger as Floe
Nears Breakup

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW, Feb. 7.—Four Russian scientists reported they were in extreme peril Sunday night as they frantically strove to prevent the tiny floe bearing their North Pole weather observation camp from being crushed in an ice jam.

The jam was caused by the ice field sweeping in against the east coast of Greenland, 75 miles west of the scientific party.

Commander Ivan Papanin, in charge of the group radioed the arctic ice all around them was piling up, breaking into small pieces and shifting rapidly.

The endangered campers reported they had hastily placed all their equipment on sleds for a life-and-death race to a safer spot if their 100 by 160-foot block should be crushed.

Three Soviet rescue expeditions have been racing toward the scientists since a violent six-day storm broke up their large ice floe last Tuesday. They have drifted 1,000 miles from the North Pole in eight months.

Papanin gave the party's position as 83 degrees, 10 minutes north and 18 degrees west, showing their camp had been pushed southwestward about 50 miles in the jam of ice piling up against Greenland.

The campers said the temperature was 12.2 degrees above zero (Fahrenheit) and that there was a light wind and mist.

STATE CHANGES LIQUOR AREAS

Columbiana In 12th District; Headquarters
At Steubenville

Creation of a new liquor enforcement district with Steubenville as headquarters and changes in the boundaries of five other districts were announced today by Alfred Humphrey, Columbus, chief of the state liquor enforcement division.

The new or 12th district will embrace Columbiana, Jefferson, Carroll, Harrison, Belmont and Monroe counties.

The changes, effective March 1, are being made to facilitate enforcement and reduce the travel expenses of liquor inspectors, Humphrey said. He added that no additional inspectors would be hired.

Cuyahoga county will become a district to itself with the removal of Lake and Geauga counties from the Cleveland district to the Youngstown district.

Perry will be taken from the Columbiana district and added to the Zanesville district.

The counties going into the new Steubenville district have been in the Zanesville, Youngstown and Canton districts.

Evangelist Opens Friends Service

Marked by a large attendance at all services, a two-week evangelistic campaign opened Sunday at the First Friends church of which Rev. C. F. Bailey is pastor.

Rev. Wade Patrick, Alliance, the evangelist in charge, stated at the morning service that he did not use a club, or tricks to trap people. His messages, he said, are based on Bible truths.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Smith, Canton, are in charge of the music and also will hold special meetings for the children.

The children's meetings will be held at 3:45 p. m. on Tuesday and Thursday and at 2:30 p. m. on Saturday.

Gospel services at 7:30 each evening, except Saturday, will be preceded by a prayer service in the church basement.

POLICE PROBE HOLDUP, THEFT

Would-Be Bandit Frightened Away; Garage
Is Entered

An attempted holdup and a garage robbery were investigated by police over the weekend.

A lone gunman who tried to rob occupants of the Goldie Blair residence, S. Ellsworth ave., Saturday night, fled out the front door when Patrolman Paul Ormsby came in the rear door.

The officer had been called by a girl employee who slipped out, unnoticed by the man, who was armed with a .45 caliber automatic. He demanded money.

Patrolman Clifford Todd today investigated the theft of a quantity of tools and a 1936 model Oldsmobile car from the Zimmermann garage, N. Lundy ave., Sunday night.

The thieves went through a window to gain access to the garage, and apparently loaded the car with tools before driving off.

The investigation of the breaking and entering of the Harris poolroom, S. Broadway, Saturday morning, disclosed today that the burglar had taken $2.50 in change from a cash drawer.

Youth Is Arrested On Robbery Charge

Police Chief Ralph Stoffer announced today the arrest of Ira Lakin, 19, of Granite st., indicted secretly by the January grand jury on a charge of breaking and entering in connection with the robbery at the Salem Golf club July 27, 1934.

Lakin was taken into custody Saturday afternoon following his return from Pennsylvania, where he had been living.

Arraigned later before Mayor George Harbo, the defendant pleaded guilty to the charge and was bound over to the grand jury. Bond was affixed at $1,500.

Lakin, Chief Stoffer said, disappeared when police arrested three other youths in connection with the golf club robbery. The other three were placed on probation by Lisbon court attaches.

General Coxey, 84, Refuses To Count Years

"It's All Imagination", He Says, As He Plans Trip to Mine In West

(By Associated Press)

MASSILLON, Feb. 7.—"General" Jacob Schler Coxey won't grow old at 84.

"Getting old is all imagination," declares the man who led an "army" of unemployed on Washington in 1894.

"I'm like the women—I never count my years. . . And the 'general' started talking of a trip west to see about a mining venture.

In steady, determined tones, Coxey insists that issuance of non-interest bearing bonds is the solution to this nation's depression-recession woes. He has said so for 44 years. His proposed legislation has been introduced in congress 12 times.

Called Various Things
Some term Coxey's idea inflation; Andrew W. Mellon as secretary of the treasury called it a "flat money" scheme; but Coxey patiently answers back:

"The government owes the people money at cost. Interest charges should be abolished."

To three presidents he personally has proposed that:

States and subdivisions issue non-interest bearing 25-year bonds, deposit them with the federal government as security. The government would print money to the extent of the bonds, return it to the states and subdivisions, deducting one per cent for cost of printing and handling. Then use the money to put the unemployed to work, and retire the bonds annually at the rate of four per cent, without inter-

DEATH MOURNED BY RESIDENTS OF COLUMBIANA

Native of Village Passes
Away In His Sleep
Early Today

FUNERAL TO BE HELD IN AKRON

Had Broken Ground some Time Ago for Home
At Columbiana

Harvey S. Firestone, 69, Akron rubber manufacturer and a native of Columbiana, died suddenly at his winter home at Miami Beach, Fla., this morning.

Announcement of Firestone's death was made by his son, Russell A. Firestone, in the following statement:

"Harvey S. Firestone passed away in his sleep early this morning at his home here (Miami Beach). The funeral will be held in Akron later this week."

Coronary Clot Blamed

The cause of death, it was learned authoritatively, was coronary artery thrombosis—formation of a clot in the coronary artery, which is one of the two main vessels carrying blood from the heart.

Firestone was 69 years old last Dec. 29. He had suffered from illness intermittently in recent years, but his health was good when he arrived on his birthday for his annual winter sojourn at his ocean front estate.

Industrialist, banker, philanthropist—Harvey Firestone, chairman of the board of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., of Akron, was a conspicuous example of the country's great business leaders who have risen from small beginnings on the farm.

He was born on the old Firestone homestead, located just two miles east of Columbiana village, the son of Benjamin and Catherine Firestone.

Developed Model Farm
His grandfather, Peter, and his great grandfather, Nicholas Firestone, built the old homestead where Harvey was born. The home still stands today on the 970-acre property which the rubber magnate in recent years had developed into a model farm.

He attended the "red school house" and later, the high school near Columbiana, and then took a course in a Cleveland business college.

His graduation from high school was with the class of '87. Firestone was host to Columbiana High school alumni at the golden anniversary banquet, which he sponsored, June 26, 1931. The party was held in the old homestead and 750 persons attended.

At that time he presented the living members of his class with a book he had written entitled "School Days and School Mates."

Firestone visited frequently at his Ohio farm and only recently had broken ground for a new house. A year ago he had a unique solid wooden fence constructed about his farm to keep out the noise of automobiles passing along nearby Route No. 14.

Japs Plot Reply To U.S., England On Navy Building

Officials, However, Understood To Be Opposed To Disclosing Facts
On Ship Program

(By Associated Press)

TOKYO, Feb. 7.—Foreign Minister Koki Hirota said in parliament today the government had reached no decision as to how it would reply to formal requests from the United States and Great Britain concerning Japan's naval building program.

"The foreign office is consulting the authorities concerned about the reply," said Hirota, "but there has been no decision and I am unable to express an opinion on the matter."

Earlier the foreign office spokesman denied Japan was building "capital ships of 43,000 tons." "It has been widely reported abroad," he said, "that Japan is building capital ships of 43,000 tons, but at the moment there is no plan to construct such battleships."

Won't Disclose Details

Japanese navy officials, however, were reported to have decided against disclosing details of the Japanese naval building program to the United States and Great Britain.

Domei (Japanese news agency) said such a decision was made at a conference of the officials and added that it conformed to established policy.

The United States and Great Britain asked in formal notes Saturday that Japan inform them by Feb. 20 of any plans to build battleships exceeding the 35,000-ton limit set by the 1936 naval treaty among the two powers and France, which sent a similar request.

The notes said the powers would be forced to invoke clauses of the treaty permitting them to compete with any other power if Japan failed to give assurances she would adhere to the treaty she had refused to sign.

The communications also stated Japanese failure to answer the requests for information would be taken as an admission that Japan was building battleships of more than 35,000 tons.

Domei said the Japanese government would send formal replies to Washington and London prior to Feb. 20.

The foreign office spokesman declared Japan's only fundamental armaments principle was: "Non-menace, non-aggression."

"The naval plan presented to the United States congress (by President Roosevelt) calls for an increase of 20 per cent above the maximum London treaty limit," he said.

RULE MRS. HAHN HAD FAIR TRIAL

Three Ohio Judges Condemn Blonde to Death
In Chair

(By Associated Press)

CINCINNATI, Feb. 7.—Anna Marie Hahn, convicted poison slayer, lost her right in the Ohio court of appeals today to escape a sentence of death in the electric chair when three judges of the court concurred that she "had a fair trial."

In a 16-page opinion, Judges Simon Ross, Francis Hamilton and Stanley Matthews wrote:

"We find that no error has intervened to her prejudice."
Mrs. Hahn was convicted Nov. 6 of the death by poison of Jacob Wagner, one of four elderly acquaintances of the German born blonde to die in what the state contended was a scheme to "murder for profit."

She is under sentence to die March 10.

Att'y Hiram C. Bolsinger, who with Joseph C. Hoodin was counsel for Mrs. Hahn in her month-long trial, said he was "sorry to hear of it," and reiterated his intention to take the case "to the United States Supreme Court if necessary."

He declared he would begin work at once on an appeal to the Ohio Supreme Court.

Confesses Slaying Common Law Wife

YOUNGSTOWN, Feb. 7.—An indoor field meet will mark the meeting of the Friends Circle of the Presbyterian church here Tuesday evening. The meeting will be held in the church and will include lunch.

Coxey said the contract was for too long a period and would thwart any opportunity of possible rate reductions within the 10-year period. The petitions never were acted upon, but petitions circulated by another group were accepted by council and legislation providing for a referendum is pending.

Only recently Coxey re-entered the local scene when he began circulation of petitions demanding a referendum on action of city council in entering into a 10-year contract with the Ohio Public Service company.

ENFORCING LIQUOR LAWS

An order to enforce the laws does not always command a generous exhibition of handclapping. Usually the public looks upon enforcement as a duty of police officers with no congratulations necessary when their chief admonishes them to do their duty.

In issuing orders to members of the Salem police department to rigidly enforce laws regulating the opening and closing hours for beer and liquor establishments, Chief Stoffer deserves some commendation for taking recognition of a condition in Salem that was rapidly going from bad to worse. Violations of the closing hour established by city ordinance have been a nightly event in many drinking places. The bolder these offenders became, the more insistent were the customers that still another round of beer or liquor be served.

While many liquor establishments were obeying the law to the minute, several were taking advantage of the officers and of the framers of the city ordinance. The situation had become a topic of general comment, with the question of how these operators were "getting by" still unanswered. Chief Stoffer has now given the answer in an order which compels enforcement against all without exceptions.

The soundness of that order lies not alone in the performance of a duty imposed upon every police officer. If the proprietors of liquor establishments could only realize it, the order is a protection to their business. The practice of keeping open after hours will lead to a public reaction against liquor as quickly as will any of the other reasons which could be advanced. Abuse of any privilege sooner or later leads to repeal of that privilege.

SO HOW ABOUT SPEAKING UP?

A conference of little businessmen wasn't needed to prove there's no lack of ideas about how to restore confidence and stimulate buying and production in America. Any wide-awake congressman could have told the new dealers the same things in a 10 minute interview.

It's the business of congressmen to know what's going on in their districts, and usually they do know. An ideal congressman has big ears to hear with and a big mind to enable him to understand what to do about his constituents' problems. He should be able to think as well as to transmit thought.

It wasn't the purpose of the conference of little businessmen to make Americans think about representative democracy, but there couldn't be a better excuse. For what the new deal did, in effect, was to stage a noisy and badly managed exhibition to discover what congressmen have been aware of all along—that the country is dissatisfied with the effect of new deal policy on its affairs.

Perhaps congressmen will be encouraged now to speak up and do a little original thinking on their own responsibility, instead of waiting for predigested opinions from the administration's Big Idea factory.

ADJOURNMENT BY MARCH 15

The prospect, described by the President, of congressional adjournment by March 15 will cause no tremors of pleasure, except on the part of congressmen who would like to draw their pay for nine months of 1938 without needing to remain in Washington, where everything is expensive.

The legislative program at present includes the naval expansion bill, the wage-hour proposal, tax revision, government reorganization and regional planning. Anti-trust legislation may be added to these proposals.

The only way congress could adjourn by March 15, unless the administration doesn't want its own measures to be voted on, would be to revert to its former method under the new deal of accepting bills it had not read and passing them in haste before anyone had a chance to understand them.

Government reorganization alone deserves debate lasting from now to June. The naval expansion program should be discussed thoroughly in the senate, which seems to lack information it is entitled to have concerning foreign policy, a subject related closely to armaments.

Certainly regional planning is not a thing to be done between lunch and bedtime, not even between February and June, when it begins to get hot in the capital. That brings up another point: How can the public feel admiration for its congressmen unless they show they are willing to stagger dutifully from pillar to post in Washington's dreadfully humid summers?

THE STARS SAY:

For Tuesday, February 8.

This should be a very lively day, with much stirring in business and private affairs, judging by the interesting chain of planetary aspects. There may be good news of a rather surprising nature, probably in connection with legal matters, writings, contracts, publicity. Be wise in dealing with superiors; shun disputes and wordy arguments. In social, domestic and affectional relations there may be much activity.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a very lively and interesting year, with much business opportunity and very happy and lively social, domestic and affectional relations. Secrecy and intrigue, or under-cover business agreements may prove advantageous. There are auspicious signs for litigation.

publishing or writings, but be sure not to work at cross purposes with superiors.

A child born on this day may be very clever, lively, versatile and lovable, and may succeed either in an intellectual or artistic profession. It may also bring unusual shrewdness, tact or diplomacy to its relations.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Diary: Talking to Merrill Meigs, the Chicago pamphleteer, for whose ancestors Meigs county in Ohio was named. And Mrs. Betty Henderson sent her brochure of poems. So across to the Waldorf and had a tucking of griddle cakes and spoke to Cecil B. DeMille.

Working awhile and Frank Vance from Gallipoli came and we boarded a charabanc to see the new World's Fair grounds and prowled through Harlem. And so a visit from Will Rogers' upstanding son Bill, who is embarking for Europe for a stay of four months and will visit Spain.

To dinner at a public and chatting a moment with the stunning Mrs. William Rhineland Stewart. And watched Jules Glanzer cut some capers on the dance floor. Fascinated, too, by a monocled lady who puffed her cigaret through a holder reaching clear out to her.

Percy Crosby is exception to the general rule that artists take little notice of politics. He not only takes lively interest but spends enormous amounts in telegraph tolls and for newspaper space to express violent opposition. However, Crosby is not a crusader but an unusually easy-going fellow until he thinks the average man is getting the worst of it; then he begins shooting from both hips. He has published a half-dozen books at own expense to express his views, and once bought an entire page in every New York newspaper.

Few know that the once Belasco and now Theater Guild star Ina Claire was a Shiela Barrett of her early day. Her mimicry in vaudeville was second only to the child wonder, Little Elsie, who became Elsie Janis. Miss Claire's remembered impersonations were of Harry Lauder, Eva Tanguay, Alice Lloyd, Ethel Levy, Geraldine Farrar, Frances Starr, Jane Cowl and Billie Burke. Mimics have often graduated to dramatic and comedy roles. Cissie Loftus, when she abandoned mimicry, was able to run away with several plays in her character roles and the more recent Eddie Garr has shown some talent in straightaway characterizations.

The circus will scarcely be the circus this year without the fabulous Dexter Fellows. He was among less than a dozen for whom I stifled my telephone phobia to answer when he rang up. There was no resisting Dex. He symbolized romantic vagabondage to those of us ink-stained and harnessed to desks. To ignore him in spring would be like shooting a robin off the lawn. His formula was sheer magic. He never wrote a line. All he had to do to cure us out of space was to tell journalistic wretches he was in town and we unlimbered our typewriters literally to bury him and his exhibit in an avalanche of adjectives. Dexter was especially good copy because he did not care how you poked fun at him so long as the circus got a break. The most hilarious stories Frank Ward O'Malley ever wrote were written around Fellows.

Also not many pamphleteers have been so extravagantly publicized the past few months as Maury H. B. Paul, the Cholly Knickerbocker of the social page. He was profiled in two parts in The New Yorker, panegyricized in the Elsa Maxwell serial in Harper's Bazaar, glorified in two current novels and was included for several pages in Cecil Beaton's photographic "Scrap-Book" of celebrities. A many-faceted fellow, he is a dandy peg for romances. But his chroniclers did not stress his indefatigable industry. No other reporter turns in so much copy nor half so readable. He has made a career and fortune out of what to many has been a routine job.

Bagatelles: Hope Hampton and Jules Brulatour have not, if in the city, missed a theatrical premiere in eight years. . . Idaho named its highest mountain peak for Senator Borah. . . With an audience of intimates, Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth is considered one of the best after dinner story tellers in Washington. . . Will Rogers' youngest son Jimmy is conducting a large cattle ranch near Los Angeles and making a record.

15 Nations Building World's Longest Highway

With motor highways in actual use over more than half of the projected 11,850-mile Pan-American highway between Washington, D. C., and Buenos Aires, engineers are visualizing the day when the longest road ever built will connect the two Americas. Fifteen nations are concerned in building the road which is projected through Mexico, Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Panama, Venezuela, Colombia, Ecuador, Peru, Chile, Bolivia and Argentina. Between Texas and Panama a stretch of only 650 miles remains to be completed. Motorists recently traveled the entire route which abounds in scenic and historic points of interest.

FRESH AIR

WITH INCREASED knowledge concerning the air we breathe, there are still many persons who overlook the need of fresh air and the getting of great quantities of it in the sunshine. Of course, we meet those who are known as "fresh-air fiends." They obtain their enjoyment of life and at the same time promote health by their efforts to get all the fresh air possible. Perhaps the majority of city dwellers, however, deprive themselves of needed fresh air and sunshine.

Human beings, like the animals and plants, require fresh air to maintain health and life. The cells, tissues, organs, muscles and joints of the body, as well as the brain, can function only if there is an adequate supply of pure air. The air in which we live exerts a certain pressure upon our bodies. This is commonly known as the "atmospheric pressure." It serves to keep our bodies intact and prevents collapse of the physical structure. Any change in this pressure causes vital changes to occur within the human body.

The scientists tell us that the normal atmospheric pressure is about 15 pounds to a square inch. The individual of average size who lives at sea level, it is amazing to learn, is subjected to a total pressure of more than 15 tons. Yet we could not survive without it; that pressure is absolutely essential for normal functioning of the body.

Air Pressure Varies
One in good health soon accustoms himself to the atmospheric pressure, whatever it is. But occasionally, as in mountain climbing and in flying, certain disturbances occur because of sudden changes in the pressure. Weakness, severe headache, nausea and actual collapse may occur as a result of the unfamiliar condition of high altitude. There is a marked difference between the air pressure as found in New York City and in Leadville, Colo., a mile above sea level. Gradual approach to the higher level permits the body to adjust itself, but in flying that difference in level may be reached in a few seconds. For this reason aviators have tanks carrying oxygen which can be breathed to neutralize the effects of the altitude in which they fly.

Changes in atmospheric pressure occur, too, when men go below sea level. This is observed by those engaged in building under-water tunnels. To prevent evil effects from sudden variations in pressure, there are provided "decompression chambers," devices for control of pressure at different levels.

For those who live and work always at one level, having a constant atmospheric pressure, no matter what it is, an abundance of fresh air and sunshine is needed. Too little attention is given to this health requirement. It is essential to your welfare. Do not overlook its importance.

Answers to Health Queries
Mrs. J. H. Q.—Is whooping cough a disease of the lungs? How is it contracted? What is the treatment?
A.—No, it affects the pharynx and throat. It is usually contracted by coming in contact with the discharge of an infected person. The treatment should be outlined by the doctor attending the case. For further particulars, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

M. P. Q.—My mother has diabetes and is troubled with poor circulation in her foot, especially around the toes. Her feet are always cold. What can be done to overcome this condition?
A.—Your doctor should outline special advice in this instance. Proper diet and care should be of value. Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Modern Methods Keep Paris Cleaners Among Leaders In Their Own Industry

WORK IS BACKED BY KNOWLEDGE

Firm Keeps Abreast of Newest Developments and Materials

The dry cleaning business is a comparatively young industry and, like anything new, mistakes were made in the eternal search for perfection.

And, as usual, there were some who took advantage of a trusting public, making the work of the honest dry cleaner that much harder.

But there have been and are trustworthy dry cleaners, with whom the public feels it may entrust its work. And that type of so-called cleaner whose only knowledge is that gasoline in a tub will wash out some of the loose dirt and, perhaps, dissolve some of the grease spots, is rapidly disappearing.

The modern cleaning plant may be likened to a chemical laboratory. Every container is filled with solutions prepared after years of research, not by one manufacturer, but by literally hundreds, all bidding for business.

Every new preparation must be better than the article it seeks to supplant.

No man can hope to compete in this active, constantly changing field of endeavor unless he keeps pace.

Such a program is followed by L. C. Price, manager of the Paris Cleaners on the Benton rd. He attends conventions, keeps informed through trade journals, and is alive to new developments in fabrics, process and equipment. Nothing in the field of dry cleaning escapes his attention.

To such a business man you may entrust even your finest party apparel, confident that no dry cleaning will be more modern, more scientific than that in use every day at the plant of the Paris Cleaners.

Buses Carry Sun Valley Patrons

MODERN automotive transportation, as represented by Ford V-8 buses and trucks, is contrasted with the reindeer sleigh and the dog sled at Sun Valley, the Union Pacific railroad's famous playground in Idaho. Five Ford V-8 buses, with enclosed bodies of special type, transport patrons between the resort hotels and the bases of various ski courses in the high mountain valley. The buses are equipped with ski racks. Eight teams of reindeer, like the Donner and Blitzen pair at right, and six crack dog teams, like the huskies shown, also are available for use by patrons. In addition to the five ski buses, all other motor equipment at Sun Valley is Ford.

including a dump truck, a panel truck and a Fordson tractor. The Ford units were bought after railroad engineers had made careful study of the problems of transportation through Idaho snow.

SAN FRANCISCO — It may be legal to use tear gas bombs on human beings, but they don't go for dogs. When Alfred M. Rich threw a smoke pellet between two dogs to stop them from fighting, a neighbor had him arrested for cruelty to animals.

KEEP STEP WITH MANUFACTURERS

Sinclair Company Specializes In Designing Lubrication To Fit The Car

Twenty years ago there were twice as many makes of cars on the road as there are today. But lubrication wasn't much—either as a service station job or as a protection against wear and tear.

Only three lubricants were available then, according to C. M. Larson, chief consulting engineer of the Sinclair Refining company. These lubricants were medium motor oil, 600 W. gear oil, and No. 3 cup grease.

Today, the picture is reversed. Makes of cars have shrunk by a full half, but lubricants recommended by car manufacturers have expanded almost tenfold in number and type. Greater power, higher speeds and tremendously increased pressures have created need for specialized lubricants. New gadgets of varying kinds on cars have also called for appropriate new oils or greases to keep them working efficiently.

It has been a race—with lubrication engineers developing "new model" oils and greases as fast as new model cars roll off the assembly line. Lubricants and car lubrication are complicated today. They have to be, otherwise there would be undesirable complications for motorists.

Sinclair has always been a leader. You will find any Sinclair station prepared to render factory recommended lubrication service.

EUROPEAN RACE IS WON BY FORD

V-8 Piloted By Bakker Schut Victor Second Time In Annual Monte Carlo Rally

DEARBORN, Mich., Feb. 7. — Competing against the cream of Europe's finest motor cars, a Ford V-8 piloted by Bakker Schut triumphed for a second time by winning the 1938 running of the annual Monte Carlo rally, most grueling of all continental motor car competitions. Results of the rally have just been reported by cable to the home offices of the Ford Motor company here.

Five Among First Seven In addition to winning the rally, five Fords and Matford cars, the latter Fords manufactured in France, were among the first seven cars to win places in the rally. A Matford team won the cup for best team performance, while Madame Roualt, piloting a Matford, and wife of one of the Ford drivers competing in the rally, was winner of the ladies' cup. Fourteen V-8 cars and the entire Matford team of five cars completed the rally course of some 4000 miles. All of the winning Fords were powered with 8' horsepower V-8 engines.

The competitors in the rally piloted their cars over strenuous routes which originated in seven corners of Europe and converged upon Monte Carlo, in the tiny principality of Monaco nestling on crags overlooking the Mediterranean Riviera. At the conclusion of the run the drivers and their cars were forced to demonstrate driving skill and car performance in a series of strenuous "agility" tests.

The rally routes originated at John O'Groats, the northern tip of Scotland; Stavanger, Norway, and Umea, Sweden; Tallinn, Estonia; Athens, Greece; Bucharest, Roumania, and Palermo, Sicily.

How They Routed Them The course originating in Scotland crossed England to Folkestone, and continued from Boulogne through France to Monte Carlo. The two routes originating on the Scandinavian peninsula joined at Copenhagen and continued through Germany and France to the finish. That starting at Athens was routed through the capitals of Bulgaria, Yugoslavia and Hungary, thence through Germany and France. From Bucharest another route lay through Czechoslovakia, Germany, Belgium and France. A sixth route passed through Estonia, Latvia, East Prussia, Poland and Germany and thence into France, while the seventh crossed Sicily to Messina and continued through Italy and Austria to a junction with the route from Athens at Vienna.

The progress of the competitors as they plunged along the tortuous routes and converged on southern France was closely supervised by officials in charge of the rally, with control stations at Rheims, Ulm, Rodez and Grenoble. Competitors were forced to carry spare equipment and implements for fighting deep snow and other adverse winter driving conditions to be expected. Some of the routes led through the Alps and rigorous road conditions were encountered.

CHRYSLER PUTS BRAKE AT RIGHT

Hand Lever In Position For Immediate Use by Driver In Case of Emergency

Emergency brake levers for years have been placed at the right of the driver. As a result, most drivers, when they need to use the emergency, instinctively reach out with their right hands. It's a natural reaction built up through years of driving with the brake on the right hand side.

Today the trend is to pistol grip emergency brakes located under the instrument panel. Many of these new type brakes have been placed at the driver's left. But in the 1938 Chrysler Royal and the Chrysler Imperial the pistol grip handbrake is in the center of the instrument panel where the driver's right hand can find it instantly with no fumbling.

Placing the independent handbrake lever under the instrument panel instead of on the floor gives additional floor space and foot space in the front compartment. Thus additional comfort is provided without sacrificing the right hand position of the brake handle.

The 1938 Chrysler handbrake is entirely independent of the hydraulic service brakes. It consists of a cast iron drum on the rear of the transmission with a contracting band operated by a cable from the handbrake lever. Since the parking brake acts upon the rear wheels through the propeller shaft and the rear axle, braking effort at the wheels is equalized by the differential and multiplied in effectiveness by the rear axle gear ratio. See these new Chrysler improvements at Smiths garage, E. Third st.

OIL TEST REAL TIP TO DRIVER

Tells Motorist Immediately True Condition of the Oil In His Crankcase

Ninety per cent of the motorists fail to know that front wheel bearings should be removed, cleaned and repacked with fresh lubricant every 5,000 miles as the manufacturer of their car recommends.

Most motorists believe that front wheel lubrication is included in a chassis lubrication job. That's why front wheel lubrication is neglected. Here is another tip for every motorist. At any Sinclair station they will show you with the oil test napkin exactly how dirty or watery the oil is in your car's crankcase when compared with clean fresh oil on the same napkin.

If it's dirty, regardless of the miles driven, it should be changed.

Jeffrey was arrested when he applied for a passport ostensibly "to go to England." He had written his wife telling her he wanted to "fight for democracy in Spain."

Magistrate Aureli originally set bail at $1,000 but raised it to $1,500 when informed that Jeffrey wanted to go off to war.

POLL UNDER WAY ON FILM "BESTS"

Results Of Industry-Wide Balloting To Be Announced At Academy Banquet On March 3

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 7.—Artistic opinions clashed today as 15,000 film actors and technicians weighed nominees for "best" achievements in 1937.

Results of an industry-wide poll will be announced at the annual banquet of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences March 3, when gold statuettes will be awarded the winners.

Five actors and five actresses were nominated as having given the best performances during 1937. Two, Paul Muni and Luise Rainer, won awards in 1936.

Muni was nominated to repeat on the basis of his "The Life of Emile Zola." Miss Rainer was chosen for her Chinese peasant characterization in "The Good Earth."

Other actors nominated: Charles Boyer in "Conquest," Fredric March in "A Star Is Born," Robert Montgomery in "Night Mail," and Spencer Tracy in "Captains Courageous."

Besides Miss Rainer, the actresses were:

Irene Dunne in "The Awful Truth," Greta Garbo in "Camille," Janet Gaynor in "A Star Is Born," and Barbara Stanwyck in "Stella Dallas."

Five pictures nominated as the year's outstanding productions were: "The Awful Truth," "Captains Courageous," "Dead End," "The Good Earth," "In Old Chicago," "The Life of Emile Zola," "Lost Horizon," "One Hundred Men and a Girl," "Stage Door," "A Star Is Born."

Stalls On Track, Six Die In Wreck

BENTON, Ark., Feb. 7.—An old model automobile stalled on the Missouri Pacific's main line tracks at a country-road crossing yesterday and wrecked "The Texan," fast passenger train eastbound from Dallas to St. Louis, bringing death to six persons.

The victims, crushed and scalded as the front part of the train piled up, were three members of the train crew and three Negro passengers. A half dozen others aboard the train, carrying 77 passengers, suffered minor injuries.

Two youths who had been riding in the automobile scrambled to safety just ahead of the crash after frantic efforts to push the machine off the tracks.

Two baggage cars, four day coaches and two Pullmans left the rails, but six other coaches remained on the tracks.

The trainmen killed were:

John Thomas Brannan, Texarkana, Ark., 67-year-old engineer who last month completed 50 years service with Missouri Pacific without an accident; Peter Grunz, St. Louis, Mo., 64-year-old railway express messenger; L. J. Jackson, 58, Little Rock Negro porter.

WAGE ACCOUNTS BEING POSTED

Second Step In Program To Provide For Old Age Benefits Gets Under Way

Posting of wage accounts under the old-age insurance program of the Social Security Act is now under way. Edwin V. Faulhaber, manager of the Youngstown office of the Social Security board, announced today. Already wage information for the workers of nine states is being entered on their ledger sheets, and it is expected that by the end of February the posting will cover workers in every state.

This is the second step in the program which provides for payment of old-age insurance benefits to men and women in industry and commerce when they reach the age of 65 and retire from work. The first was the recording of personal information furnished on more than 37,000,000 applications for social security account cards. The setting up of social security accounts for workers from these applications is virtually complete.

The posting of wages to social security accounts could not be undertaken until the board had received from the United States treasury the wage reports of employers showing amounts paid their workers. The first reports, covering the first half of 1937, were submitted to the bureau of internal revenue by July 31, last, and were received by the board from the treasury during the final months of 1937.

The second, showing wages paid through Dec. 31, 1937, should be in the hands of the collectors of internal revenue on or before Jan. 31, of this year, but will not be available for posting for several weeks. Beginning Jan. 1, 1938, these wage reports by employers will be made quarterly instead of semi-annually.

The speed with which posting of individual wage accounts can proceed will depend upon the flow of wage information furnished by employers, as certified to the Social Security board by the treasury. By the end of June the board expects to be able to answer inquiries of workers as to the status of their wage accounts, and the board is considering procedures which will make it possible for workers to obtain such information at regular intervals.

Father Kills Two Men Demanding To See His Daughter

(By Associated Press)
PORTSMOUTH, Feb. 7.—A 50-year-old father's story of how he shot and killed two men on the front porch of his home after they demanded to see one of his daughters was written into police records here today.

Police Capt. Lee Startzman said that John Walker told him he fired twice with a double-barreled shotgun and that Walter Stewart, 24, and Henry Wright, 23, both of Portsmouth, collapsed and died.

Startzman quoted Walker as saying he shot after the men came to his home a second time last night and insisted that he call his daughter Mildred, 23, or "we'll kill you." Then, Walker added, the men "made a move toward their pockets." Walker was held pending an investigation. Also in custody was Joe Powell, 24, who Startzman said he had been informed, was with Stewart and Wright until shortly before the shooting.

Walker related to the police official that the two men, whom he said he did not know, appeared at his home early in the night and asked for Mildred. Walker told them she was "asleep and isn't seeing anybody."

The men departed and he retired, Walker continued. Several hours later, he said, another daughter, Ruth, 19, came to his room and informed him "those men are back again and pounding on the front door."

Walker told Startzman that he rose from bed and went to the door, picking up a shotgun on the way.

IDENTIFY MASK OF SLAIN BANDIT

Cleveland Restaurateur Says Victim Was Former WPA Worker

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, Feb. 7.—Detective David Kerr said today a Cleveland restaurateur had identified the death mask of a man known as "Mac," killed last Friday in a Columbus gun battle, as that of Jacob Miller, former WPA worker here.

Detective Kerr said James Matzoras, proprietor of a downtown restaurant, related Miller used to cash government checks at his place of business.

Sought A Year Ago

Miller stood six feet two inches and was about 38 years old, with sandy hair and blue eyes, Kerr said. He was sought by police a year ago in a flurry of store holdups, but Detective Kerr said he had no criminal record.

Three witnesses to a $14,000 bank robbery here last July were asked today to view the corpse of Vincent Grinkowicz, slain with the mysterious "Mac," on the chance Grinkowicz' younger brother Bruno had been identified erroneously as one of the robbers. The younger Grinkowicz is serving a two-to-15 year term in federal prison.

Witnesses at his trial were positive of the identification of Ray Stern, 24, convicted with him, but said only that Bruno Grinkowicz "looked like one of the men."

Detectives here said the brothers were virtually "doubles."

Murder Indictments Returned

COLUMBUS, Feb. 7.—Less than an hour after meeting in special session today, a Franklin county grand jury returned first-degree murder indictments against Stephen Figuli, 20, and Carl Boettcher, 24, both of Cleveland, in the slaying of Detective Robert Cline following a branch bank holdup last Friday.

Common Pleas Judge Dana P. Reynolds thanked jurors for their immediate response to the special session call.

"We find that a speedy administration of justice is quite a deterrent to crime," Judge Reynolds asserted.

He set Feb. 28 as the trial date. The indictments charge separate counts of murdering Detective Cline, slaying a policeman during a robbery, and robbery.

Both prisoners had pleaded innocent to first degree murder charges before the indictments were returned.

Figuli appeared in police court, and Police Judge Harold Kime, accompanied by Assistant Prosecutor Rolland Allen, received Boettcher's plea at Mt. Carmel hospital where the latter is a patient.

Defense In Wright Case Nearing Close

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—The defense for Paul Wright, ex-airport manager charged with murdering his wife and friend, John Kimmel, drew toward a close today with only three or four witnesses remaining to be called.

Jerry Giesler, defense attorney, said their testimony would be brief.

The state will present several rebuttal witnesses to bolster its argument that Wright, deliberately and fully aware of what he was doing, shot his wife and Kimmel to death in his Glendale home last Nov. 9.

Prosecutor E. Ernest Roll, said he would place on the stand Mrs. Edith McBride and Natalie McBride, mother and sister of the slain woman.

The marital life of the Wrights, up to the time of the slaying, was pictured by the defense as comparatively happy, with the defendant a loving, faithful husband.

Mrs. McBride and her daughter, Roll declared, will tell a different story. The prosecutor said Mrs. McBride would testify that Wright underwent a sterilization operation, not to protect his wife from the hazards of another childbirth, but to escape the responsibilities of fatherhood.

The case is not expected to reach the jury until late in the week. Wright has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity.

Theater Attractions

Louise Fazenda and Nat Pendleton, featured in "Swing Your Lady," showing at the Grand theater tonight and Tuesday.

"Swing Your Lady," farce-comedy dealing with life among the hillbillies of the Ozarks, will be seen tonight and Tuesday at the Grand theater.

The story has to do with a champion wrestler and his entourage who get stranded in a hill hamlet. The wrestler, to get them out, has to take on a match with a local "ground-scurfler," and this battle is said to be one of the funniest things thrown on a screen this season.

Some real Wrestling
It's more or less on the level, too, because the wrestling champ is not other than Nat Pendleton, the actor who at one time held the Olympic heavyweight title and the hillbilly is Dan'l Boone Savage, the picturesque, bewhiskered strong man well known in the current grunt and groan racket.

Humphrey Bogart plays Pendleton's manager, Frank McHugh is his trainer, Penny Singleton is Bogart's heart interest, Louise Fazenda is a lady blacksmith, and the famed vaudeville team of the Weaver Brothers and Elvira are hillbillies.

Sonja Henie Film
The new Sonja Henie film, "Happy Landing," which teams the skating star with Don Ameche (with her in her first picture, "One in a Million"), will be the attraction tonight and Tuesday at the State theater.

"Happy Landing" tells the story of a song-writing band leader (Cesar Romero) who flies across the Atlantic for a publicity stunt and comes down in a Norwegian fog-bank—almost in the middle of a folk festival known as a "Bride's Fair." The custom which starts the trouble is a rule that if a young man dances twice with the same girl at the party, he has proposed.

He Dances Twice
The band leader, a little bit amused because one lovelorn little girl is giving him plenty of his favorite food—hero worship—dances twice with Sonja Henie.

Don Ameche, the flying baton-wielder's companion, knows there is little or no sincere interest in Romero's attentions, inasmuch as he is very much engaged to an American girl played by Ethel Meriman. It is Ameche's lot to replace Romero in Miss Henie's affections.

"GIVE HER WINGS" by MARIE BLIZARD

CHAPTER XXXVI

Milliecent Dadd's fingers pressed a series of careful pleats in the fold of her freshly laundered smock. Her neatly shod feet were braced against each other. To keep her knees from trembling.

The screen door on the back porch slammed. That would be the laundryman. She ought to go and speak to him about the bath mat that was missing. But she couldn't have moved out of the yellow brocade chair.

Tommy lit his sixth cigarette. "Well—"

"I can't Tommy. We're all adult people who know our own minds."

"You seemed to have missed the point completely," he said angrily. "I have the only adult mind of all four of us! Julie was, and is, and always will be a little fool; but that's all right with me. You said yourself that she was not to be blamed. But I'm holding you responsible. Millicent, for Dick's happiness."

Milliecent swallowed hard. "You don't know what you're talking about Tommy," she said when she could find her voice.

"Granting that I'm neither a fool nor unobservant, Millicent, consider the things I've told you. The case is simple: Dick has been in love with you all the years that I've known him."

"He was," she corrected from far away.

"Was to a man like Dick means always I know! Dick is not an irresponsible youth. Nor a glib lover. My dear, other people's happiness have always been his first concern. I know darn well that Julie engineered that engagement and that Dick could not hurt her, believing that she loved him."

"Look here, Millicent. He still has your photograph on the desk in his room."

"But why not? We're still friends."

Tommy tore his hair. "Friends? The best of friends! Dick's been happier in these last two weeks—longer than I remember him. How many times has he found a reason to drop in and ask for your advice, hoping you'd invite him to supper?"

"Almost every night in the last fortnight, she admitted to herself. "You've a full life ahead of you. Kids instead of committee meetings! A man who needs you! If you won't think of yourself, think of him! And of Julie. Believe me, Millicent, I know what I'm talking about. I've done a bit of growing up myself this summer."

"I'm not old. I'm only thirty-four. I could have children. It's not too late. Other women have gambled for their happiness," Millicent felt that Tommy was there. Had been there for the last three hours pleading with her.

"I'll have to talk to Julie first," she said at last.

Tommy pulled her to her feet, gripped her shoulders with his strong young hands.

"I forbid you to do that! Julie always has a strong case. She's not wise and balanced but in her appealing helplessness, she is strong. If you talk to her, you'll forget everything I've told you. At this very minute you are thinking of Julie's happiness. Millicent, I am thinking of it, too! I ask you to give all of us a chance."

"I can't promise, Tommy. I do promise that I'll help her. Bring her to me."

Tommy put his arms around her and gave her a tight hug.

"At five o'clock," he said.

The door opened softly. Cosy tiptoed across the room and drew the shade of the west window through which the late afternoon sun was beginning to shine. Returning to the door, she paused by the bed, looked down on the pale, bruised sleeping face and her wrinkled hand went out with a gesture that was incredibly soft to smooth back the curls from that poor bruised forehead.

Julie's hand caught the wrinkled one. Smiling, with her eyes still closed, she said, "I'm not asleep, Cosy. I'm lying here in a beautiful dream realizing I'm home."

Cosy's free hand patted her shoulder.

"I brought you a present."

"I don't want any presents. I just want my girl to be home." Cosy answered, and her voice was harsh because there were sentimental tears in it.

"Nevertheless you'll take it and like it! What did Priscilla think of her doll?"

"She's gittin' downstairs in that party dress answering the telephone that's bin ringin' all day for you."

At that moment Priscilla's lusty young voice yelled, "I told you I can't! She's asleep and we have to keep the house quiet!"

"Oh dear, I know she woke you up! She'd wake the dead."

"I'm a long way from dead, Cosy, and Priscilla's voice sounds like music to me... do I smell something cooking?"

"Now, there, Julie. I was talkin' to your father about gettin' a ventilator put in so the smells won't come upstairs..."

"Don't you dare! I don't want a single thing changed in this house. But I do want food! If there's any hot water, I'll have a bath. I've got to get up, Cosy. Tommy is coming for me around five o'clock."

The old Cosy said, "You're not goin' to start traipsin' around to-day. Good Land o' Goshen! I've been turnin' more people away from the door, and now you're goin' out and what'll people say?"

"That sounds natural," Julie said happily. "For a while I was afraid you'd changed, too."

Julie's sense of comfort and peace came because she was home, rested and refreshed but, sitting beside Tommy, on her way to Millicent's, she deserted her.

"Oh, Tommy, what will I say to her! I'm so ashamed.... I can't ask her to loan me more money. She knows and I know that...."

"Don't ask her for it. Just tell her what you've told me." That was all that Tommy would say. He wouldn't even go in with her.

Milliecent was sewing in her sitting room. She dropped her sewing things when Julie came in. Her voice trembled a little and her knees felt weak.

"Well, darling," she said, and kissed Julie, taking both her hands. "Come over here beside me and tell me all about it! I want to hear about your wonderful trip and all the things that have been happening to you!"

Julie sat beside her on the sofa, twisting her handkerchief. Millicent was waiting for her to speak.

"It was wonderful and it was dreadful!" That was the way that she began. And as she told her story to Tommy, so she told it to Millicent. Except that she did not ask Millicent for her help.

When she had finished, Millicent cleared her throat. It felt dry. She said, "Julie.... I'll give you the money."

Julie said, "Oh, Millicent!... I'll repay it, every cent. I'll get a job in one of the shops. I'll give you my pay...."

"It's.... not a loan!" Millicent said.

"Not a loan! But I can't take a gift as big as...."

"It's not a gift."

"But I don't understand."

Milliecent put her hands in her pocket where Julie couldn't see them, moving uncertainly. "It's a purchase price, Julie. It's for Dick." Julie's eyes widened incredulously.

"I'll write you a check," Millicent hurried on. "Then we'll all start clear. You'll break your engagement to Dick."

"But Dick loves me," Julie said. "So he does. But not the way he loves me, has always loved me. He loves me as a woman. He loves you as a child. He believed that you loved him and he did the gallant thing. I'll write you that check." She got up, unable to meet Julie's eyes.

Only the scratch of Millicent's pen disturbed an immense silence.

Julie pressed her handkerchief to her mouth. She felt little lost. She had been selfish, ruthless, without thought or consideration of others and no one lover her. Every other person in the world except Cosy and Dad and Priscilla saw her as she was. She wasn't the lovely, desirable girl at all.

When Millicent turned from the desk, she saw the desolation in Julie's tear-stained face and gathered the girl in her arms.

"Oh, Millicent! I'm so sorry.... and so lonesome. Nobody loves me!" She clung to the older girl.

Milliecent slipped the check into Julie's purse, and wiped Julie's tears on her handkerchief.

She said, "Tommy's waiting for you, dear."

She got in beside Tommy. He pressed his foot on the starter and the old car gave a racking cough and bolted forward.

"Where to?"

"Anywhere," she answered.

After they'd gone about a mile he turned around and looked at her.

"Your lipstick's smudged and you've got ink on your nose," he said critically.

She wet her lips with her tongue and made a pass at the spot on her nose with her wet handkerchief.

"If you'd tidy yourself up, you'd be a good-looking girl," he said judiciously.

"Really?" Something was the matter with her voice. She'd tried to say it sarcastically but instead the word sounded as though she

Too Ashamed of Her Skin to Go to Party

Skin blemishes are aggravated by constipation. Just as it can cause loss of appetite, nervousness, weakness.

Dr. F. M. Edwards treated hundreds of women for constipation and frequently noted remarkable improvement in their appearance. For his treatment he used a purely vegetable compound—Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. This laxative is gentle, yet peculiarly effective because it increases the bile flow without shocking the intestinal system.

Complete Card for Amateur Boxing Show at Memorial Building Wednesday Night

EIGHT BATTLES ARE LISTED ON AMATEUR SHOW

Six Salem Fighters To Appear In Simon-Pure Bouts

Eight bouts will be included on the popular amateur boxing show which will be presented at the Memorial building Wednesday night, it was announced today by Jimmy Perry, promoter.

The bouts will feature amateur sluggers from Salem, East Palestine, Alliance, Rogers, Washingtonville and New Brighton, Pa. The Simon-pure program is the first to be staged in Salem in several years.

Six young Salem fighters, representing Jimmy Perry's Athletic club, will appear in the show. They are Bill Hamacher, Don West, Carl Woner, Freddy Fox, Eugene (Greek) Altomare and Bob Shannon.

Hamacher, a 170-pound German lad, will battle Kid Freconna of Alliance in the main bout. A resident of Salem for the past two years, Hamacher has 10 amateur fights to his credit. All of his past appearances were made in and around Buffalo where he lived for five years prior to moving to Salem.

West is booked to meet Enoch Henry, the "pride of East Palestine," in the semi-final bout. This match is expected to develop into the best of the show.

Henry has been mopping up everything in sight in East Palestine amateur shows and has been kicking for a crack at West, who has appeared in three fights to date, winning two by the K. O. route and the other by decision.

West is 16-years old, a freshman at Salem High school and one of the outstanding under-18 prospects for the Quakers' 1938 football team. He weighs 132 pounds and is a brother of Wilbur West, who was one of Salem's leading amateur fighters several years ago.

The other bouts involving Salem scrappers will see Woner meeting Kello Muniz of Alliance; Fox battling Joe Unger of East Palestine; Altomare squaring off with Kid Mulch of East Palestine and Shannon facing Jackie Ealy of East Palestine.

Eyster, 150-pound brawler from Washingtonville, will test his skill against Kid Jackson of New Brighton, Pa. in another of the show's slugfests.

The curtain raiser for the card will be a scrap between two 100-pounders, Tommy Mansly of Rogers and Bobby Mansfield of East Palestine. The show will start promptly at 8:30 and bouts will be run off without delay.

INDOOR TRACK MARKS BROKEN

Three Records Fall During Millrose Games Saturday Night

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—The 1938 indoor track and field season still is in its infancy but three world records, one of them long standing, already have been smashed.

Glenn Cunningham again has asserted his supremacy over the nation's best milers and Pittsburgh's "Long John" Woodruff has lost his first half-mile race in nearly two years.

Ben Johnson, Columbia's Negro captain, stamped himself as the newest "fastest human" with a new world record of six seconds for 60 yards and Forrest (Spec) Towns of Georgia and Allan Tomlich of Wayne university rang up a new international mark for the 60-yard hurdles at the Millrose A. C. games Saturday night.

Although Towns whipped Tomlich in the hurdles finals, the lanky Georgian was forced to share the new record of 7.4. Both made the time in their trial heats and Towns did it again in the finals. The old mark of 7.5 was established by John Collier in 1934.

The twin combination of Delmer and Elmer Brown and Wayne and Blaine Rickett from West Texas State Teachers chalked up the third new mark of 7:27.5 in the mile and seven-eighths medleys relay. The old mark of 7:29.6 was made by New York university in 1932.

Cunningham tied the Millrose mile mark of 4:11. He came back later and ripped off a 50.4-second anchor quarter on the New York Exchange relay team.

Woodruff admitted he was not himself after finishing in a field of seven in the half-mile which Charles Betham, former Ohio State ace, won in 1:55.8.

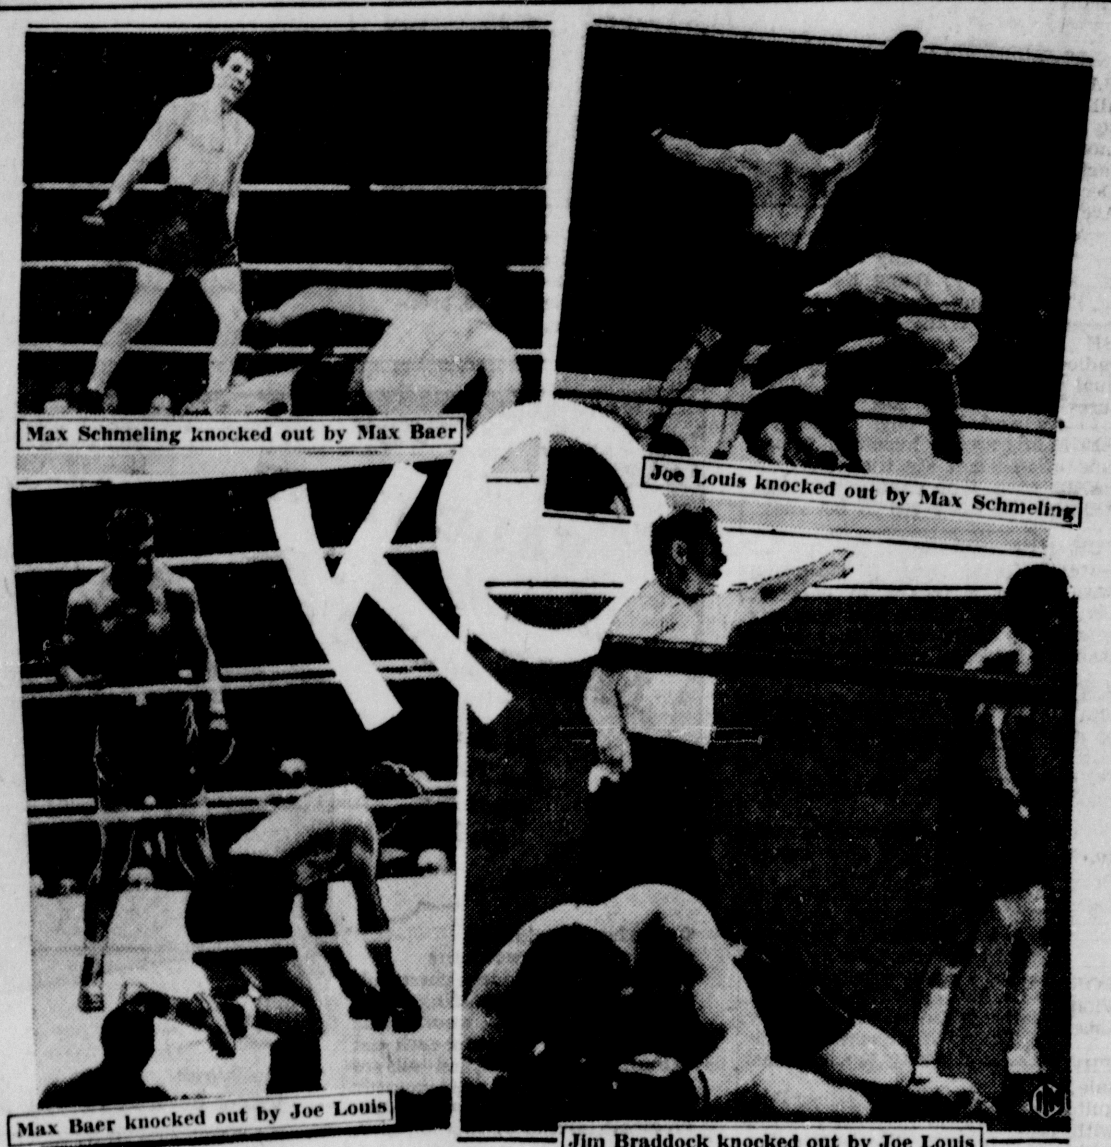

Salem Saxon Cage Games Called Off

Failure of Columbus Saxon basketball teams to put in an appearance caused cancellation of games scheduled for the Salem Saxon boys and girls' teams at the Memorial building Saturday night.

Several players from the Columbus girls' team arrived here and played against the Salem lassies in a practice game.

Heavyweight: One Who Is Knocked Out, And That Goes For The Champion, Too

By RAYMOND RIDDLE
International Illustrated News Writer

NEW YORK—Tommy Farr beaten by Jimmy Braddock, is to have a return bout with the ex-champion. Thus, is illustrated once more the perennial "deplorable" situation among the world's heavyweight battlers.

Taking the ranking contenders, one by one, it is discovered that each has been knocked out. There is no super-fighter upon whom to pin the hopes of a return of the million-dollar gate of sports' golden decade.

Louis Took Count, Too
Joe Louis is meeting a youngster named Nathan Mann in an obvious tuneup for a return bout with Max Schmeling in summer. It is significant of the "situation" that Louis, the champion, has been knocked out, too.

Max Schmeling knocked out Joe Louis. Joe Louis knocked out Jimmy Braddock. Max Baer knocked out Max Schmeling. And Jimmy Braddock defeated Max Baer, only to be knocked out himself by Joe Louis. The fan well may ask, "What manner of heavies are these?"

NEWARK, Cal. — The mystery of how to lure a seal back to the ocean when it has wandered a mile or so ashore was solved here when it was discovered that by tying a carrot to a stick and holding it in front of the seal's nose it would amble back at a satisfactory rate.

HIGH SCORING QUINTETS SET PACE IN OHIO

Point-A-Minute Teams Only Ones Getting Any Place

By FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, Feb. 7.—A bit of grammar school short division disclosed today only the "point-a-minute" teams are getting any place in Ohio's collegiate basketball warfare this year—elimination of the center jump having sent the scores soaring into the stratosphere.

In the Ohio loop all teams which have won more than half their contests are averaging better than a point-a-minute, while no team breaking even or worse has been able to crack into the select scoring circle.

The two leaders, Wooster and Wittenberg, are roaring along with averages of 65 to 60 points, respectively, the most ever registered in the 20-college loop.

In the Buckeye, Marshall and Ohio university, the only teams with a chance at the laurels, are point-a-minute clubs, while the other four are far below that class. The "all-games" division offers a slightly-different setup, five of the 15 teams winning more than half their games having failed to score at the 40-per-game clip. But each is holding the foe to an average of 34 or less.

Akron's valiant zippers stand out as the best defensive club in Ohio, the 12 foes averaging but 28 per game as the Zips captured nine of the 10 contests. Akron maintained a seven-point margin by averaging 35.

The Mt. Union team, leader in the state-wide standings with a dozen wins in 14 games, is next on the defensive list with a mark of 30, but that club has scored an average of 41. Miami and Wilmington are tied at 31 each for third place.

Laurels, and both are out of the high scoring bracket. The Oxford Redskins have run up an offensive average of 35, while Wilmington has a mark of 36. Wooster is the high average team with 56 points per game, and Toledo second with 51, each having held the foe to 36.

"Blonde In Black" Finishes Story On Plan-Stealing Plot
LONDON, Feb. 7.—"Miss X," svelte blonde in black of the British counter-espionage service, today finished her story of springing the trap on four men accused as arms plans thieves, during a lightning appearance in Bow street police court.

She told in low tones of the climax of nearly three years' work to foil the copying of munitions plans taken from the big Woolwich arsenal, allegedly for a foreign power. "Miss X" told how last Jan. 21 she had telephoned the intelligence service after P. E. Glading, former arsenal employee and chief accused, told her he was going to meet some one at Charing Cross preparatory to a big photographing "job."

Officers converging on Charing Cross arrested Glading and Albert Williams, until recently armament examiner at Woolwich, after Williams had handed Glading a brown paper bag alleged to have contained plans for a detonator-testing apparatus smuggled from the arsenal.

The prosecutor had said there was evidence of "contact with a foreign power," which he did not name. But "Miss X" testified that a mysterious couple "from Moscow" had taken a part in the copying of arms plans and later had disappeared.

Defense counsel declined to cross-examine "Miss X" today.

She was followed to the stand by a little man whose name also was undisclosed. He was described as a counter-espionage agent whose mission had been to watch the apartment which "Miss X" rented for Glading in February, 1937, and in which, according to "Miss X," hundreds of stolen plans were photographed.

The hearing was continued until Feb. 11.

Columbiana Native Passes Away In His Sleep Early Today

chased and reclaimed all the land in the original grant which his great grandfather had received from the government years ago. Today the farm covers 970 acres.

Ford Visited Farm
Firestone had brought many noted visitors to his farm and in the past year Henry Ford had conferred with him there. Firestone occasionally attended services in the Grace Reformed church at Columbiana.

Firestone donated the 10-acre tract for Firestone park at Columbiana, and aided greatly in raising the village's contribution to the quarter-million project in order that a federal grant might be secured. Work on the project is continuing.

Surviving Mr. Firestone are his wife, Isabelle; five sons, Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., Russell, Roger, Leonard and Raymond, and one daughter, Elizabeth. An aunt, Mrs. Nancy Lower, lives on N. Elm st., Columbiana.

Firestone's first job as a youth was as clerk in a Columbus store. He later became a traveling salesman, selling flavoring extracts for $50 a month and expenses. He saved $500 in the year he had that job.

Interest In Rubber
Firestone's interest in rubber came when he worked for a buggy manufacturing concern in Columbus. He was sent to Detroit to exhibit the first rubber buggy tires ever made.

While in Detroit, he interested three other young men in the possibilities of rubber tires. The upshot of the discussions was the formation of the Victor Rubber Co., in Chicago. Each of the partners invested $1,500.

So successful was the enterprise that in 1900 the founders sold it for $1,250,000.

With $250,000 as his share of the sale jingling in his pocket, Firestone returned to Columbiana county. But he soon grew restless. He was too young to retire. Less than a year later, he came to Akron, which then was promising to bud out as the rubber center of the world.

First Factory Small
Firestone bought the building and equipment of an old carriage works, hung up a sign bearing "Firestone Tire & Rubber Co." and went to work. A dozen employees and a bookkeeper were the nucleus of the present organization.

The Firestone company now consists of two tire plants, a steel rim plant and a battery plant in Akron, a plant in Hamilton, Ont., one near Buenos Aires, and one in France. Firestone cotton mills in Fall River, Mass., and Firestone rubber plantations in Liberia, West Africa, are subsidiaries.

They Can't Agree Even On Separation

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 7.—Film actress Fay Wray is quite certain she and her husband, John Monk Saunders, are separated, but Saunders doesn't agree.

Miss Wray declared yesterday she and Saunders, scenarist, had separated because of incompatibility but had "not discussed the question of divorce."

"No other person is involved," she said. Saunders expressed great surprise. "I know of no cause why either of us should desire a divorce," he declared.

For two weeks, Saunders has not been living with Miss Wray, but it has long been his custom to isolate himself when writing. He and Miss Wray have been married 9½ years. They have a daughter, Susan Carrie, 16 months old.

of predatory policy," he said. Hull on Saturday requested Japan to make known by Feb. 20 any plans to build battleships above the 35,000-ton limit set by the 1936 London naval treaty.

If larger ships were being built, Hull said, the United States would be forced to compete. Great Britain and France sent similar notes.

Semi-official navy data disclosed that the demands of the three powers were backed by tentative plans for building 11 capital ships this year, in addition to 10 already under construction.

May Increase Nine Ships

The three nations are in a position to increase the tonnage and fighting power of at least nine of the projected vessels beyond the 35,000-ton limit. Gun power and armor protection, and perhaps speed, automatically would go up with greater bulk.

Nothing that Japan has been reported to be contemplating, it was said in naval circles, could match what either the United States or Great Britain alone might build.

in the event of a decision to scrap the treaty.

Appropriations to commence two new American battleships are contained in the 1939 navy supply bill already passed by the house. President Roosevelt in his proposed $800,000,000 naval program asked that work be started this year on two others.

Great Britain, according to semi-official information, will announce in March a program of five battleships, six to nine cruisers 18 to 30 destroyers and six to 15 submarines. She already has five 35,000-ton super dreadnaughts on the ways.

France has two battleships projected for the immediate future, in addition to three under construction.

At the bottom of the sea the crab needs protection against his enemies... So nature gives him a shell-like garment and cleans it with the scrubbing action of sand and water... But your garments are soft... They absorb oils and gritty dust particles during wear... They lose their freshness... Your garments need a gentler but more positive cleaning method—One that goes all the way into the fibres of the cloth and restores their original cleanness and pliant softness... There is one process that gives your garments safe, gentle, thorough cleansing—one that restores their original texture and makes them stay fresh longer after cleaning—that process is MIRACLEAN.
